

19

September
STARTS AT 10AM

Inez Moore Parker Archives Fellow Series

Guest Speaker: Dr. Shanna Greene Benjamin
Literary critic and biographer

ARCHIVAL SECRETS

Learn about hidden secrets
from the JCSU archives.

James B Duke Memorial Library-Sandbox
RSVP: jcsulibrary@gmail.com

LIMITED SEATING

Light Refreshments

I am delighted to have been selected as Johnson C. Smith University's inaugural Inez Moore Parker Fellow. This year, I was awarded a national fellowship from the American Council of Learned Societies and look forward to spending a portion of my fellowship in residence at the archives and research center named in Parker's honor. Professor Parker and I share much in common. Parker was an English professor at Johnson C. Smith University committed to preserving the institution's history and ephemera. I am also an English professor committed to preservation, albeit in a slightly different manner. Instead of focusing on a particular place in my writing, I focus on a particular person.

In addition to a 2019-2020 ACLS Fellowship, I received additional funding from Brown University's Howard Foundation for 2020-2021. Half in Shadow: The Life and Legacy of Nellie Y. McKay is under contract with the University of North Carolina Press.